QUOTE

We all have hobbies, but my hobby is a bit unusual, I investigate the paranormal. Today is Friday, January 11, 2008. I am headed to a home in the south area of Sacramento. I am meeting up with Shannon 'Ms. Macabre' McCabe. We are ready to conduct a preliminary investigation on a home that is claimed to be haunted. The occupant Sue Gray says that she moved into this home in February 25, 1984. The home is built on an area that used to be strawberry fields. The activity started in 1990. Simple things started happening, car keys and ATM card are missing for a few days and reappear in plain sight. Then things started escalating. Things start feeling weird in the bathroom.

Sue's son hears someone in the bedroom talking to another person and when entering the bedroom, there is no one there. It appears that Sue is fond of antiques, she has an old rocker that belonged to a family friend. She has a kitchen table that is over 100 years old, it once belonged to her neighbor's great aunt. She has a hutch that is over 100 years old and once a woman in an apron appeared next to this hutch. Could it be that the antiques that Sue brought into her home, made her home haunted? Could the antiques carry some type of residual energy to cause the haunting? Could the furniture contain psychometric energy to disclose their secrets?

When Sue took family pictures around the house, she noticed on her photographs, that she was taking pictures of orbs. In one photo she showed Shannon and I, that there are 5 glowing red small orbs near a family member. When taking pictures in the backyard, she takes a picture that shows several orbs. The most significant activity that occurred in this home, is that a dark figure of a man was seen in the backyard floating from one end of the backyard to the other end. The same dark figure of a man was seen in the bathroom by a family member. Then not too long after the dark figure of the man was seen in the bathroom, her son heard a man and a boy talking in the bathroom and when he went into the bathroom to investigate, there was no one there. At times Sue lays in bed and she can feel a moving cold spot cross her face. Sue is seeking answers to find out the cause of this activity. Shannon investigates using her electronic audio digital recorder. We are still analyzing the recording, to see if any EVPs were actually picked up.

I took several photographs around the home and some of the photographs depict orbs. The investigation continued until 1:30am. There is a lot of evidence Shannon and I, must sift through, but tonight is not the night to analyze the evidence. Shannon McCabe is preparing to conduct a preliminary investigation of the Brookdale Lodge with core paranormal investigators Donna Reynolds, Holly DeLaughter, Cherie Vincent, Michelle Stump, John Wachter, Bryan Coleman, Michele Paykel, Tim Hawkins and Chris Grissom on Saturday, while I have to prepare for a scouting mission at the Brougham residence in Citrus Heights on Saturday. Robert Gordon and Karisten Lockhart who live in a home on F Street notified me a few days in advance that an investigation in their F Street home on Saturday would not happen due to some complications. Their home which had a lot of activity, such as things flying off the shelves and hearing strange noises was recently blessed. Now the activity has resided. This Saturday, Jan 12, 2008, I was taking my paranormal investigators-in-training to two residential haunts and now that the F Street home canceled, they will only be involved with the Brougham Residence, in which they will be allowed to spend the night!

Before I discuss the scouting mission this Saturday, I will tell you that on January 6, 2008, Sunday, we did a photo shoot with Gold Rush Ghosts and for the Ghost Girls upcoming DVD. The people who attended this event were Gold Rush Ghosts paranormal investigators: Maria Muzzy, Nancy Bradley, Paul Dale Roberts, Robert Reppert, Rodney Roberts, Catherine Noble, Danielle Carpenter, Chris Grissom, Ron Williams, Liz Harrison and Millieanne Jackson. Shannon McCabe was there for the photo shoot with Nancy Bradley aka Nancestrodaumous for the Ghost Girls DVD. If you want to see some spectacular investigations captured on film, be on the lookout for the Ghost Girls DVD! I have been working on a demonic case in Ohio. The lady is named Rosemary. The case is somewhat complex and Nancy Bradley - Psychic to the Stars assisted me with this case.

Now to the scouting mission on Brougham Way. Let's take a roll call. Paul Dale Roberts - Lead Investigator/Scoutmaster. Paranormal Investigators-in-Training/Scouts: Julie Robinson, Alicia Campos, Debbie Talani, Monica Talani, Robin Kanstein, Shauna Kinchen, John Shue, Paul Orlando, Robert Mabalot, Jennifer Martinez, Dee, LaShae 'Chicky' Tate, Veldena Ladson, Angel Kesti, Kelly 'Kiki' Tuttle, Anah Denzeiberg.

Let's see how this day starts out. What you are about to read is pretty scary. I have been on something like over 60 investigations and only a few stand out in my mind as being significant. This investigation is significant! As I approached the Brougham Residence, I get a phone call from Kelly 'Kiki' Tuttle, she tells me she is cruising from Redding in her White Ghost vehicle to Citrus Heights for this investigation. She tells me that through remote viewing, she picked up images of an old man with wrinkles and a reddish bulb type nose. She envisioned a drowning of a small boy. She received information that the old man was an alcoholic.

The most scariest seance
I have ever experienced.

As everyone arrived, I conducted a briefing and explained to the scouts, that the occupant will give us a walk through of her home. I had the occupant give us a brief description and asked her not to get into tell-all details, because I want my scouts to make their own discoveries and compare notes. I had Debbie Talani break everyone up into three teams. The teams came up with their own names. Team 1 was Ghostbusters. Team 2 was It. Team 3 was Can't Touch This. Each team was equipped with one video camera. Each team would have one scribe and one team leader equipped with a walkie talkie. All scouts brought a multitude of equipment from EMF Readers, digital audio recorders, digital cameras, temperature gauges, Listen Up Sound Enhancers and of course video cameras. I also made sure that each team had at least one 'sensitive'. I explained that the more people there are for an investigation, the entities of the home can absorb that energy and we should see more activity happening. Also, entities do not like disturbance and this is another possible method to get more activity. Debbie conducted some protection words for the group.

I did some researching in regard to the area location and there were some Japanese Internment Camps located in this area. Now if the Brougham residence sits on a former site of a Japanese Internment Camp is anyone's guess. Debbie Talani explained to everyone on when using their electronic audio digital recorders, to have silence to pick up EVPs. Speak and then wait a while to see if an EVP is being recorded. This is very important, because I have watched some investigators talk and talk and not allowing the entity to speak. Robin, a sensitive detected a pathway from the first floor to the second floor used by the entities of the home. Below are some of our findings, the simpler findings, before things really got kind of spooky.

FINDINGS:
Note: Some of these findings may not have witnesses, or may just be considered as feelings. These type of findings are 'inconclusive'. Example: creaking noises throughout the house, this would be inconclusive, because anything such as pipes could make those creaking sounds. If I do not mention name of scout, it's because the scout does not want to be identified with a certain finding. You the reader, decide what finding is significant.

Creaking noises throughout the house.

John Shue the next day finds large scratch mark on his back.

Monica captures blue orb - photographic image.

Debbie ask for knocks - group hears 2 knocks.

Scouts feel cold spots and electrical atmosphere.

John Shue, sensitive says that his pant's leg was grabbed.

Julie's new batteries die out.

Debbie's facial cheeks feel hot and are warm to the touch.

More creaking noises are heard by various teams.

Muffled laughter heard in kitchen area.

Cold breeze is felt moving across living room.

Scout is compelled to take jacket off, felt something on jacket, then felt like breath was being taken away. Scout does not want to be identified on this finding.

Some scouts feel chills, coldness on various parts of their bodies.

Debbie at one point of time feels dizzy.

EMF Reader goes off in closet area.

Odd noises heard in closet area.

Walkie Talkies go on by themselves and give static noise.

Sensitive feels entity does not like red color in one bedroom.

Sensitive drawn to bathroom, feels a drowning occurred in bathtub of a young child.

Some scouts feel confusion. Sensitive feels there is a little boy with brown hair - with bowl cut, almond shaped brown eyes. Sensitive feels father does not like his boy.

Sensitive feels one entity is inquisitive. That the entity is curious about us.

Sensitive feels little girl entity is shy when given attention, doesn't like to be called names, don't call her chicken, she has habit of pulling on ring finger, she is jumpy and fidgety, she is smart. Name Sarah comes in mind. Also a name starting with letter 'P'. Entity likes to lay on floor, coloring things, she is artsy, likes to play by window and at times can be vocal.

Spikes captured - up to 1.3 in closet by Robert.

34:33 big orb captured by Robert on video camera.

4.2 Spike down to 1.7

36:58 orb seen.

37:34 - EVP girl's voice, says "yes" - Team is able to hear yes with their own ears.

40:17 - voice crying EVP.

41:33 voice heard under bed - EVP.

45:41 - orb on video camera.

Lights seen near crack at the door. Lights from unknown source.

Handprints temporarily seen on wall by scout.

Marilyn Yeruef, neighbor comes over and explains that the house is 30 years old. That 2 people died here. A man and his Asian wife lived here, they ran a business from this house. The man died of a heart attack and the wife died of breast cancer. Julie Robinson - Scout felt a warm touch to her chest during this investigation, it happened to her twice. Could this be the touch of the Asian woman who died of breast cancer? Marilyn explains that conversations have been heard in the house and her 6 year old son Gabriel has drawn pictures of dead people from this house and the neighborhood, as if Gabriel sees dead people. He even draws dead animals, she showed me a drawing he did of dead people from the neighborhood.

Sensitives John Shue, LaShae, Kiki and Robin all felt there was someone who lived in this house, died by drowning. Robin felt a pressure on her chest, that may have indicated drowning.

Kiki and Robin pick up the letter W and later the name William. Kiki also picks up the name Ritchie and later the name Cappy.

Several audio digital recorders and one video camera pick up the following EVPs: growling noise. "Get out" - male voice. Whimpering noises. Girl crying noises. Little girl laughing.

EMF Readers go off at certain locations of the house. Duration of spikes: 5 seconds.

Veldena Ladson hears 2 taps on the dresser.

John Shue felt someone push him towards the closet.

Shawna Kinchen feels electrical energy around her body.

Humming or la, la, la sounds are heard by Shawna & John.

Alicia Campos gets an image in her mind, that there was once a child, age 6 in this house.

Debbie Talani felt cold spots in certain rooms, she came up with the name Sally in her mind. She heard moans, she heard 2 taps on the wall.

Monica Talani smells something burning, she hears whimpering and crying..

Robert Mabalot when asking is there a presence in the room, a belt on its own accord drops from the closet and hits him on the head.
Some scouts felt a jump on the bed and felt the bed move or shake.

THE SIGNIFICANT ACTIVITY
Now here is where the fun begins. When Team IT went into a second floor bedroom, the belt fell on Robert's head in the closet. Debbie and I, were floaters and were checking up on each team. As I entered IT's location, I told the group I am seeing an orb with my naked eye. Robert's video camera picks up the orb I am seeing with his video camera. Photographs are taken around the house and many orbs are showing up on the digital cameras. I know, orbs are not significant, but I have more to tell, just hold onto your horses, the fun is almost here! While I am with Team IT, the whole team with their own ears hear a girl's laughter two times! Then the little girl phantom says "hi"! This is heard by all Team IT. When Team 'Can't Touch This' goes into this very same room, they hear knockings on the wall. Debbie says, thank you for allowing us to know that you are here. The walkie talkie at that very moment comes on and a little girl's voice says "you're welcome". This was heard by all of Team Can't Touch This and it was picked up as a recorded EVP. Now for the real scary stuff, read what happens when we do the séance!

THE SEANCE

Three of the scouts are observers and do not participate in the séance. I have researched the methods of séances and conducted my very first séance. As we all held hands, I made a 'hedge of protection' prayer. A candle was lit in front of us. Debbie tells the entities to make the flame go up and down for a yes and sideways for a no. We ask various questions and the flame seems to indicate 'yes' and 'no' and then a few times it seemed to be oblivious to our questions. I started talking and asked for the entities to please let us know that they were in the room. The walkie talkie comes on and a male's voice says "Get out!" or some scouts think it was a growl. Everyone participating in the séance screamed - well, except for me. Anah almost broke my hand from screaming so hard. As we regrouped, I said another hedge of protection prayer. We clasped hands again, since we broke the circle after this scream fest. I again asked the entities to make their presence known, over and over again and finally a LOUD screeching sound goes across the wall, again everyone is screaming and Anah is practically on my lap! We all hold hands tightly as knockings go across the wall. This was enough for the occupant and she asked for the séance to cease. I had to respect the wishes of the occupant and stopped the séance immediately and asked for a blessing to fall upon us all through prayer. Before I close on the séance, Alicia saw a moving orb in the room with her eyes and I saw a tiny orb go from Kiki's face to Julie's shoulder, with my own eyes.

Like I said, I have been to many, many investigations and only a few stand out and this is one of them! I had plenty of goosebumps running up and down my spine. Some of the scouts were going to spend the night, but after all the commotion, they were ready to pack up and head home. Enough was enough. I was hoping to have a séance during dead time at 3am, but unfortunately this investigation was now over. It was time to write my story.

All of the evidence has not been analyzed, so please look frequently at HPI Meetup at: http://ghosts.meetup.com/231/ and the HPI Website at www.hpiparanormal.net for other findings! Special Note: At the end of the night, we did pick up a trucker on the walkie talkies. What we heard on the walkie talkies before, almost sounded inhuman, except for the little girl that said "you're welcome". Of course Team IT actually heard the little girl laugh two times and say "hi" with their own ears, including me. That was no trucker.

Now on a brighter note. This Saturday before the scouting mission, I stopped by A1 Comics, to see what comic books they had that dealt with the paranormal. (As, you all know I am also in the comic book business). Here is what I found: The Un-Men - Vertigo, The Boys 14 - Dynamite, Cory Doctorow's Futuristic Tales, Fall of Cthulhu #9 - Boom!, The Foundation #1 - Boom!, Gene Simmon's Dominatrix by IDW, Grimm Fairy Tales - Return to Wonderland #5 by Zenescope; Incursion #2 - Platinum Studios, The Infinite Horizon #2 by Image, John Woo's 7 Brothers - Virgin Comics, Killing Pickman - Archaia Studios Press, The Lost Books of Eve - Viper Comics, Mercenaries - Dynamite, Sheena - Queen of the Jungle -

DDP, Starkweather Immortal by Archaia, Jenna Jameson's ShadowHunter - Virgin Comics, Wayne Sealy's Mystery Manor Haunted Theatre by Silver Phoenix Entertainment Inc., Killing Girl #5 by Image, Necessary Evil #2 by Desperado, Primordia - Archaia, Badger Saves the World #1 by IDW and The Danger's Dozen #1 by First Salvo. So, if you ever need any good fun paranormal stories to read, check out these comics, you won't be disappointed! Also, thank you to Robin for loaning me: Real Ghosts, Restless Spirits, and Haunted Places by Brad Steiger!

Added Comments:
When we were conducting the seance and we heard the LOUD scratching sound on the wall, it instantly reminded me of Clive Barker's Hellraiser, when the Cenobites are summoned and the walls start opening. I thought at anytime, the bedroom wall was going to crack open. To get results like we did, always remember that entities feed off our energy. The more people you have, the more energy entities can gather. It's like going to a Van Halen concert and you can feel the energy of the crowd. Even rock stars say, they can feel the energy of the audience and the audience is able to feel the energy of their rock band. When doing a seance and you hold hands, you combine everyone's energy into a strong energy cell, entities are able to gather the singularity energy formed from the group and cause enhanced activity. This is why seances are conducted, to unite the energy of the group for the entities to feed upon. Now to another aspect of this investigation, the teams went into 3 sections of the house and spent the duration of one hour in each section before rotation.

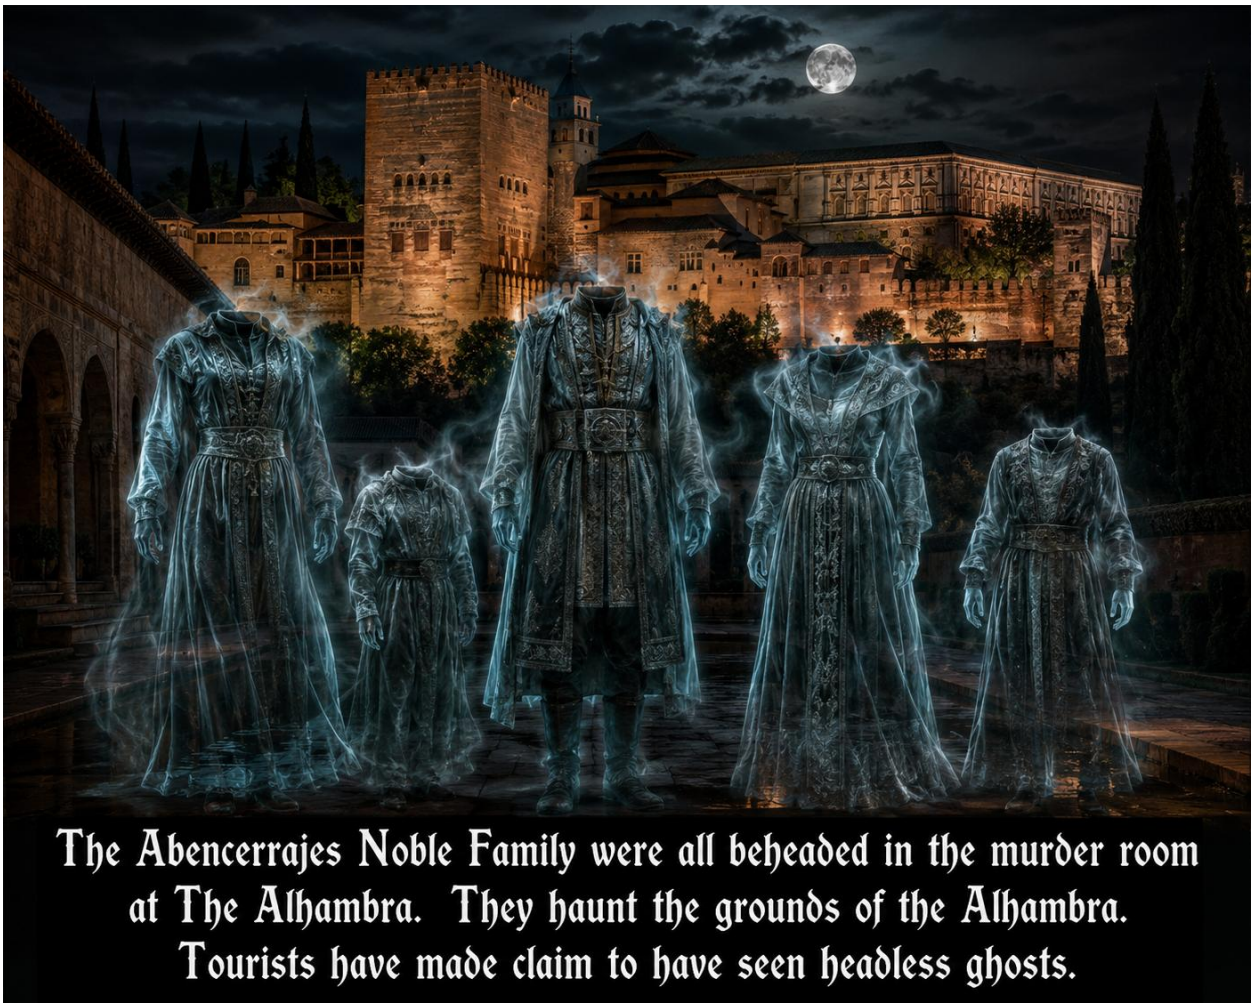
There have been many reports of paranormal activity happening at the majestic Alhambra. While the Alhambra in Granada, Spain is not scientifically proven to be haunted, it is deeply wrapped in ghostly folklore, romantic legends, and eerie visitor tales. There have been centuries of royal tragedies, battles, and secret underground spaces, that have inspired countless spooky stories about the historic Moorish fortress. Visitors have mentioned that they have heard footsteps echoing through empty archways and dark corridors. Faint whispers and murmurs are heard in the vacant Hall of the Ambassadors. People have reported sudden drafts of freezing cold air in closed, windowless rooms. Fleeting shadows have been seen darting around and near the fortress towers before vanishing completely. One of the popular legends is about the Phantom Hand. Visitors and old tales claim a phantom hand occasionally brushes shoulders or grabs arms in specific rooms, the Phantom Hand is tied to tragic romantic fables of imprisoned princesses. One of the legends that fascinates me is the story of the Tribe of Elves. Folklore tells of mystical guardian spirits or Jinns are bound to the palace, watching over the ancient Islamic architecture. Locals and tourists make claim that they have seen little people or elves guarding the Alhambra. Real-life history includes dark political murders and wartime destruction, fueling the modern reputation of the grounds being spiritually restless.

Right out of the TV show Game of Thrones, you have the Royal Murder Room and the betrayal. During the 15th century, Sultan Abu al-Hasan Ali was led to believe that the rival Abencerrajes noble family was plotting a coup. Little did the noble family know they were being set-up for an execution. The Sultan invited 36 prominent male members of the family to a grand banquet at the palace. As each guest arrived, guards immediately dragged them to the central fountain and beheaded them one by one. There have been witnesses who claim they have seen ghosts that are without a head. Witnesses have also seen the Phantom Stain. The Phantom Stain is a reddish-brown rust oxidation stain that remains permanently embedded in the marble fountain bowl. Popular legend claims the stain is the indelible blood of the slaughtered nobles, and visitors still report hearing faint, agonizing groans echoing in the room.

The French Occupation occurred in 1810. Napoleon's troops seized the fortress during the Peninsular War, turning the royal palace into military barracks and a hospital. The historic walls bore witness to the harsh realities of wartime executions, deaths from disease, and military suffering. This was known as The Execution Grounds. Upon retreating in 1812, French forces rigged the entire complex with explosives. A crippled Spanish soldier named José García successfully defused the explosives, saving the main palaces from being blown to pieces. The heavy military trauma left behind centuries of stories regarding phantom soldiers in 19th-century uniforms seen patrolling the outer watchtowers.



The Abencerrajes Noble Family were all beheaded in the murder room at The Alhambra. They haunt the grounds of the Alhambra.
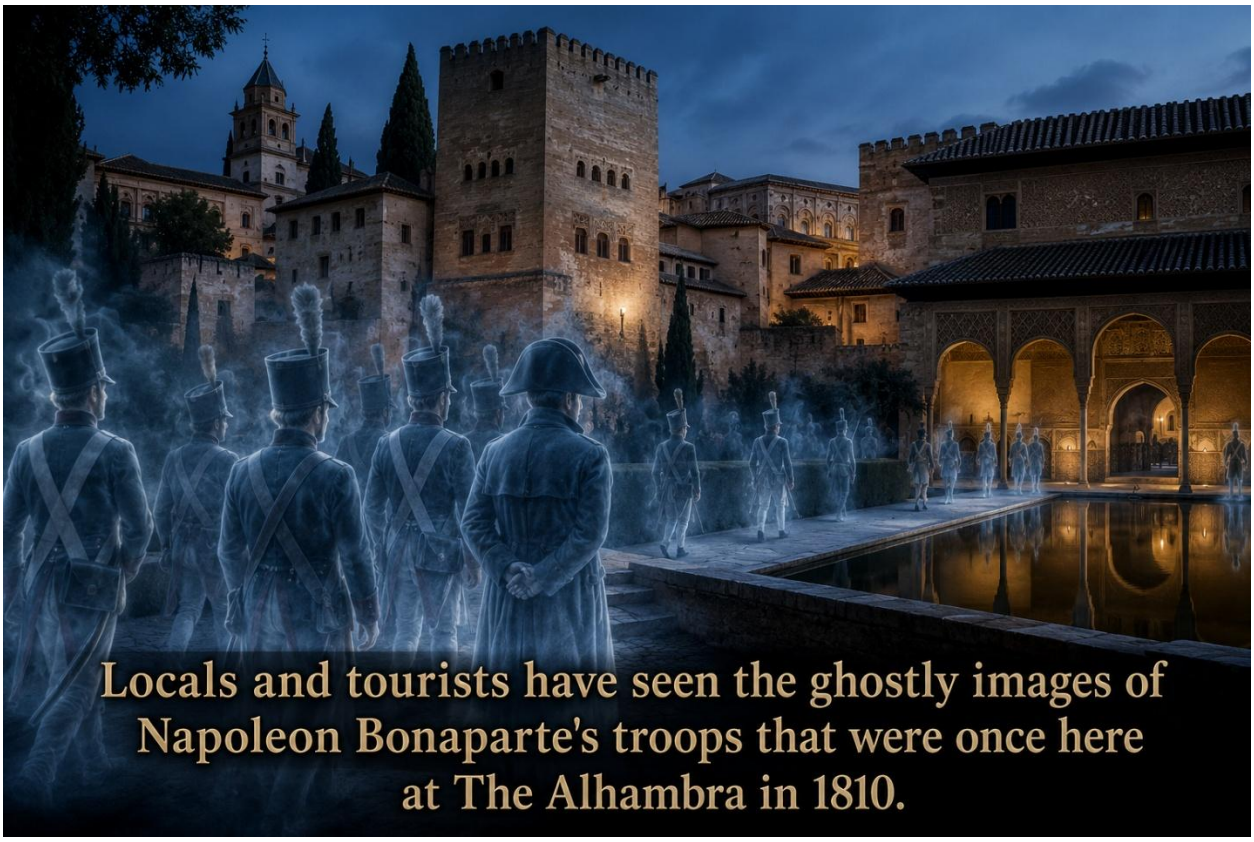
Tourists have made claim to have seen headless ghosts.

The Silos (Mazmorras) are beneath the Alhambra's Alcazaba fortress. There lies a network of deep, bottle-shaped underground dungeons. Christian captives and political prisoners were lowered down by ropes into these dark, windowless stone pits, often left to perish. The intense suffering in these subterranean cavities has made the fortress foundations a hotspot for stories of unexplained cold spots and disembodied weeping, moaning and crying. Some witnesses even say that they hear screaming at times.



Locals and tourists have seen the ghostly images of Napoleon Bonaparte's troops that were once here at The Alhambra in 1810.

There are places that have an instant reputation of being haunted. We all want to know what happens to a person after death. Is there an afterlife? What are ghosts? Our curiosity sometimes gets the better of us. We start seeking places that are known to be haunted, we hear the stories, we want to know more, and we decide to check these places out for ourselves. Here are 5 locations that are known to be extremely haunted, the legends of these places never die.

Château de Brissac:
Chateau de Brissac is widely considered one of France's most famously haunted castles, known primarily for the legend of the Green Lady (la Dame Verte). The ghost known as the Green Lady is believed to be Charlotte de Brézé, an illegitimate daughter of King Charles VII and Agnes Sorel. In the 15th century, her husband, Jacques de Brézé, discovered her having an affair with a local huntsman and brutally murdered them both inside the castle. She is described as wearing a distinct green dress, and witnesses over the centuries have claimed her face resembles a decomposing corpse with gaping holes for her nose and eyes. Visitors and family members report seeing her spectral form wandering the tower room of the chapel. Eerie, disembodied moans and wails are frequently reported echoing through the grand halls and corridors in the early morning hours. Sylvie Valtille, a tourist encountered the Green Lady in the hallways of Chateau de Brissac and claims that the Green Lady was making gurgling sounds and her green dress had blood stains. Sylvie was terrified at what she saw and fell to the floor and the Green Lady slowly faded away. Sylvie says the scene was horrific and has no plans to ever visit the Chateau de Brissac.

Bhangarh Fort:

Bhangarh Fort is known for its famous ghost legends, strict night entry bans, and historical abandonment. One of the legends is the Sorcerer's Curse. A local magician named Singhia tried to use black magic to make Princess Ratnavati love him. The plan failed when she threw an enchanted potion bottle at a boulder, which rolled back and crushed him to death. Before he died, he cursed the town that no one would live there in peace. Some locals claim that they have seen the ghost of the Sorcerer and he looks like he is angry and yelling at something, but people can't hear his voice. His mouth moves, but no sound comes out of his mouth. The sighting of the Sorcerer usually lasts only for a minute. Another legend is the Sadhu's Warning. This tale involves a holy man named Balu Nath who allowed the fort to be built as long as no building cast a shadow on his home. When the fort grew too tall and shaded his space, he cursed the entire area to ruin. Historians note that the 17th-century town was likely abandoned due to real events like wars, economic shifts, and a severe famine in the late 1780s rather than a curse. The Archaeological Survey of India (ASI) forbids visitors from staying at the Bhangarh Fort after sunset and before sunrise. This rule is meant to protect the historical ruins and keep people safe from wild animals in the nearby forest, rather than official ghost activity. The locals say otherwise.

Leap Castle, Ireland

Leap Castle is widely considered to be Ireland's most haunted castle and has a long, dark reputation for paranormal activity. Located in County Offaly, it dates back to the early 1500s (or late 13th century according to some accounts) and was built by the violent O'Carroll clan. The Bloody Chapel was named for a brutal family betrayal where one brother (a priest) was murdered by another right at the altar. The Oubliette was a hidden dungeon drop-hole where prisoners were left to starve; when the floor was cleared later, cartloads of human bones were allegedly found inside. A terrifying, ancient, non-human spirit that smells of rotting flesh and decay is known as the Rotting Flesh Elemental. You also have the Red Lady. A female specter reported to carry a dagger. The Little Girls are apparitions of two children named Emily and Charlotte who are said to haunt the halls.

Trans-Allegheny Lunatic Asylum, Weston - West Virginia

The Trans-Allegheny Lunatic Asylum in Weston, West Virginia, is widely regarded as one of America's most haunted locations, famous for reported apparitions, disembodied voices, and aggressive shadow figures in its 19th-century gothic stone halls. Opened in 1864 as the Weston State Hospital, it was designed by architect Thomas Kirkbride to use therapeutic architecture and natural light to heal the mentally ill. Built to hold only 250 patients, poor funding and societal changes caused extreme overcrowding, peaking at over 2,400 patients by the 1950s. Decades of harsh conditions, understaffing, and desperate medical treatments led to its final closure in 1994. The spirit of a young girl named Dorothy is said to have been born at the facility and died of pneumonia at age nine. Visitors often leave toys in her room. Then you have an entity known as The Creep. This entity is reported on the fourth floor and Ward R, known for allegedly moving close to the ground or hugging walls. Frank and Larry are playful fourth-floor spirits who allegedly interact with tour guides or respond to jokes.

Beechworth Lunatic Asylum - Victoria, Australia

Beechworth Lunatic Asylum (also called Mayday Hills) in Victoria, Australia, is widely considered one of the most haunted and infamous paranormal sites in the country. Opened in 1867 and closed in 1995, over 9,000 recorded deaths occurred during its 128 years of operation, with many patients buried in unmarked graves. Popular legends include the apparition of a compassionate staff member named Matron Sharpe, then you have a wandering male doctor in the corridors, and the ghost of a groundskeeper named Arthur. People frequently report hearing hazy children's voices, feeling sudden cold spots, or experiencing physical touches and menacing atmospheres in the former criminally insane wards. Tourist Edward Danger from Auckland, New Zealand says when visiting Beechworth, he got severely pinched on his arm, which left a bruise that lasted 4 days. The bruise was 4 inches in length and 3 inches in width. Edward says that when the pinch was taking place, he could feel a warm breath on his neck. When Edward yelled, the pinch finally stopped. The pinch caused a throbbing pain.

As I left my home, I threw on the X-Files theme song, because I knew I was headed for a ghost hunt. This time around I engaged my ghost hunting activities with the S.P.S. (Sacramento Paranormal Society). I drove to Donovan Turner's home. Donovan Turner is the founder/paranormal investigator/leader of S.P.S. His wife Melissa is the case manager. The day is the 24th of February, the year 2007. The time is 1700 hours. I prepare for my briefing from Donovan. Paranormal Investigation Team roll call included: Donovan Turner, Jason Kowing/Equipment Handler/Intuitive, Deona Joya "DJ" Vastine-Sharp, Janet Michalk/Intuitive, Paul Dale Roberts/Ghost Writer. Location of the haunted home is somewhere in North Highlands in Sacramento County. The occupants of this home wish to remain anonymous. The equipment we are bringing for this investigation are as follows: infrared camera; standard mobile infrared camera; stationary infrared camera; VHS recorder; tripod; temperature gauge; EMF detection meter; digital recorders and sealed recording tapes that are sealed and a witness is used for the opening of the tapes and the sealing of the completed tapes.

The briefing consisted of who the occupants were of the home, the location of home, what their religious beliefs are, how long they lived at this address, which was 1 year and 3 months and many other questions that were provided to the occupants of the home. The occupants related in the questionnaire that they smell cigarette smoke in the house and no one is allowed to smoke in the house, in fact cigarette ashes have been found near the toilet. They heard loud bangs from the pots in the kitchen. Their small child had blankets moved off of him. The blankets moved from the bed to the floor on its own. The whole family sleeps in the living room together, because they are afraid of their own home surroundings.

19:28 hours, we arrive at the residence. The ominous clouds have turned into a rainstorm with winds blowing. I think to myself...'ahh, what a great night for a ghost hunt!' We set up equipment in the garage, various teams go into the house at various intervals. Janet uses her E.V.P. (Electronic Voice Phenomenon) device and her intuitive instincts to track any presences in the home. Jason in front of me uses his EMF detector and registers no spikes in the garage. So far everything is normal. The mother and daughter of this home explain how they have seen shadows crossing the walls, cigarette ashes found in and around the toilet area and the distinct smell of cigarette smoke in the bathroom. She goes on to explain that in the master bedroom, objects have moved on their own accord, such as hats or a basket. We set up a still infrared camera in the master bedroom to see if any objects will move. The mother goes on to explain how the TV has shut off on its own and then came back on and at times the channels change. In the kitchen she has heard the freezer door open and the jiggling of ice cubes. On the stove is a picture on a stand and the stand is knocked off on its own, the daughter and mother have witnessed the knocking down of the picture in the picture frame.

At 20:01 hours, Donovan and Jason is the first team into the house, they walk into the son's bedroom. The room is warm and then at some point of time, they walk into a cold spot. The cold spot lasts for about 2 to 3 seconds, the air felt thick at this time. Jason explains on how his voice recorder had a new battery and the battery was instantly drained. Could this have happened because of spirit activity?

Janet & DJ do a walk through, Janet the intuitive feels the following:

a) When entering kitchen she is drawn to the sink, she feels a presence there. In her head, she feels she is being told to look into the backyard, she calls it a 'knowing'.

b) In living room, she felt nothing, while walking in the hallway, she is compelled to go into the master bedroom, she says it's a decisive heaviness in the air, pressure drops in the room, she finds it hard to breathe, there is distress in her voice, there is a tightening to her solar plexus and she feels a slight pain to the right side of her stomach area.

c) In the master bedroom, she feels something old, she is drawn to the hairbrush and hand held mirror. She detects an 'add-on' in the bedroom. In the 'add-on' section, she detects no presence, in the older part of the bedroom, she feels a presence, in fact she claims to detect 3 entities. The atmosphere of the bedroom goes from heavy to light. Heavy in the older section, lighter in the add-on section.

In the little boy's bedroom, she feels energy. In the bathroom, she can sense and hear giggling. She believes the spirit is young. Other comments from the team, is that the spirit is of a little boy. Janet feels a pain on her left side of her torso. She tries to entice the spirit from the garage area, with me present.

While Janet explains to me what she felt inside the house, she feels a tingle on her shoulders. She explains that when a sensitive walks into a haunted home, the spirits are immediately drawn to her, she is like their light. She explained to me feeling body pain, twitching of shoulder area, shortness of breath, because the entities of this home recognize her as a sensitive or intuitive.

Paul and Jason use an Olympus digital voice recorder as they enter the home. We are the next team up. The video camera shuts down twice on its own, for no apparent reason. When DJ was outside taking a break, she felt a presence, she felt like someone was standing on the right side of her. She felt warmth draping part of her back area and then it was gone. Janet approaches DJ and was able to describe where the incident took place at. Janet felt like something was near them.

At 20:45 hours, Donovan witnesses the garage door that leads into the home opening and closing on its own accord. I investigate to see if possibly an open draft could have done it, but the door is too heavy and when it closes, it stays closed, no wind could have opened it, let alone close it again.

Next team is Donovan and I. We investigate the master bedroom, we detect nothing. Then we go into the boy's bedroom and things start happening. Well, they start happening for me anyway. I use the temperature gauge and detect a spike, from 91 to 65 in a matter of seconds in the same area. One area remains at 65. I place my hand in that area and feel a cold spot and then before my very eyes, a small orb, the size of a pinhead floats up for about 1 foot in length and dissipates. I couldn't believe it. This was my first experience in this home!

The intuitive Jason and intuitive Janet relate the following.

Jason: That there was a spirit of a little boy in the house, over 5 years of age. Maybe Portuguese or Filipino. There was also a grown man ghost in the house. This man ghost was frustrated or sad. The little boy was playful and enjoyed playing tricks.

Janet: There was a little boy in the house, about age 7. Little boy had dark skin. He was playful. She also felt like there was a relative of the family in the house and that he had been shot, the family of the house confirmed that what Janet said was true. Janet felt shivers, discomfort and she almost felt like crying. She couldn't explain it, but she felt a sense of sadness in this house. Janet believes there are 3 entities in the home, but the 3rd one was never identified.

When the investigation was over around the time of midnight and as I drove home in this stormy night, I couldn't help wonder what was in store for this family. A family that was happy to have us around, they felt safe with us at their home and even wanted us to stay the whole evening so they could get a peaceful sleep. I remember the paranormal investigative reporter named Kolchak: The Night Stalker of the once hit TV show and how he would encounter so many things of the paranormal. Everything from werewolves to vampires to ghosts. Everything he encountered was of the negative. But, can most haunting's be of the positive? I didn't feel any negativity in this home and I believe this family is relatively safe.

After Donovan briefed the family of our findings and how he will do a follow-up from the audio/video tapes, there was a glowing smile on the mother's face. She felt more at ease, especially with the comforting of Janet's soothing words.

As I approach my home, wouldn't you know it, on my car radio, the song "Werewolves of London by Warren Zevon" starts to play!
